

Homework #11

Due in class T 10/19

- 1) WRITE a 1-paragraph summary (also called a précis) of the movie you're writing about for Essay II. Pack your paragraph with information: not just plot but also mood, themes, and other aspects of the film that seem important to you should be represented in your brief summary. Please note that I'm not asking you to include judgment or evaluation of the movie, nor to link it to a theme or thesis. Just summarize the movie—and in your own words!

We'll work with these in class.

- 2) MAKE an Annotated Bibliography for your six best sources thus far. That is, list the source, as in

Book:

Smith, Perry. A Short History of Consumer Culture. NY: Utopia Press, 2001.

Article:

Chang, Judy. "Selling and Demographics." The New Consumerism Reader. Boston: Utopia Press, 2000.

[see MLA format for web sources on-line at the MIT library web page. Click on "Courses and subjects" - "Writing" and follow link for citing on-line sources in MLA format.]

NOTE: Describe each source in a sentence, followed by a sentence that tells why this source will be useful for your project.

Both précis and Annotated Bibliography are due next class, 10/19.
